CanAssist is grateful for the generous support of you, our donors. Without you, we can not do this infrastructure work.

It is also true, however, that our work in East Africa begins with the hard work and commitment of a small group of volunteers, the trustees.

As a small working trust, we are able to keep our administrative costs low by utilizing the skills and talents of our trustees. They are all committed to using your fundraising dollars to give the best possible opportunities to hard working people and communities in East Africa.

In addition to a passion for the work, they bring a unique blend of talents and experience to the Board.

Check out each section below to learn more about the people working hard for you.
